Subject: RE: re Sunday Times piece yesterday

I don't think anyone is suggesting that the Sunday Times becomes "a place for trading views with the Donavans" but the sentence they have published is 100% wrong. This is not what the trial concluded - though I'd like the lawyers to confirm it - and if you know anything about the way Donovan works you will know he will turn this quote into fact faster than you can blink - and the piece below is probably a response to the ego boost he's received through interest.

That's why we need to think about it
